

Essay Writing Service

Who needs articles

In modern times, developing Internet resources. Sites are being created; accordingly, unique content is required. To fill out information on various topics is needed.

Earnings on writing texts are in demand. In other words, such employment is called copywriting. Such a profession deserves favorable forecasts for the future, as with the development of Internet technologies copywriters will be required. Let us consider in more detail the features of earnings on articles.

What is the job

The meaning of how to make money writing articles on the Internet is to create unique and competent texts. It seems like a mere trifle, but not so simple. Here you just need the ability to quickly read and process information.

First of all, they find a customer who will provide work and pay. Finished work is sent to the employer and if it suits, then accepts and pays. In most cases, this kind of remote work requires the Word program, as articles are submitted in text files. It will not be superfluous to install this program on a computer. Thus, the question of how to make money on articles is quickly resolved.

Copywriting, rewriting and other types of earnings

There are several ways to write articles for money on order. You can choose a separate direction or keep up a little everywhere. Consider all the possibilities:

Copywriting writing your own text based on several sources. The specialist should be aware of the topic. The topic is presented in a clear, simple and competent language. The result is a new, unique text. This type of earnings is highly paid and in demand.

Rewriting. In this case, things are simpler. The basis is a finished text or fragment, which is explained in other words, without changing the meaning and without leaving the topic. There is no right to own opinion. The writer should have an extensive vocabulary and be able to competently change the structure of the proposal.

SEO copywriting. Modern direction for text optimization. Similar articles are required to promote sites, online stores and are commercial in nature. The contractor works with specific keys and requirements.

Transfer. Everything is clear here. The original article in a foreign language is translated into Russian or vice versa. This type of activity is carried out by qualified specialists in the field of languages. Mechanical translation robots have nothing to do with quality.

Where to look for orders. Copywriting Exchanges

The first earnings on the Internet on articles receive on specialized exchanges. This is a start for a beginner and a stable income opportunity for an experienced performer. So, which exchanges exist and what they offer, see below.

Essay Writing Service is an old man on the exchange market. You can perform all types of work, access to orders is free. The service is famous for its anti-plagiarism program. You can check without registering on the exchange.

Textsale has been operating for over 10 years and is a worthy competitor. The exchange policy is focused on the web store. You will have to pay for access to orders.

Essay Writing Service is suitable for beginners, although experienced copywriters are happy with the exchange. On the exchange you can get skill levels for all types of work and take high-paid orders into work.

TurboText is a demanding exchange for potential authors and is closed to the public. The number of registered performers exceeds the percentage of customers, so in a competitive environment there is a shortage of orders.

ContentMonster is aimed at experienced authors and the doors are not open to everyone. After registration you need to pass a test of 30 questions in 15 minutes. Outsiders are available to perform microtasks and retry after 3 months.

After registering on any of the exchanges, you have to face hazing. Lack of experience and knowledge provokes self-doubt. As a young earning author competently declare about himself, we will consider further.

Competently respond to the order. In order to take on the task, submit an application with a comment. Customers look at applicants and choose the right candidate. It is not necessary to submit empty applications or dry "execute". A person does not know what to expect from the author. It is optimal to write a short work plan, topic and the possibility of operational work. Customers love the specifics.

Try to avoid fines. The rating system is designed in such a way that points are awarded for each completed order. The solidity of the reputation is given by feedback on the work done. The bigger the better. If the contractor has delayed or refused to work, the rating is automatically reduced by a factor of ten. In practice, such performers are not trusted and have to work for a penny.

Strive to be whitelisted.

Collaboration is pleasant and not very good. If the author showed himself on the positive side, then the employer puts him in the white list or vice versa. In the future, this feature allows you to effectively collaborate with trusted partners. A potential blacklist will confuse potential customers and the author will not be impressed